OPINION

The defendants (Shirley Ray Basham, Leonard Ray Casey, Dennis Joe Stobaugh, and Harold Dean Suttle), were convicted in the Sumner County Criminal Court for their roles in a night of burglaries in Gallatin on September 3, 1981. The jury found Shirley Ray Basham guilty of accessory before the fact of third degree burglary without a firearm and fixed his punishment at not less than six years nor more than ten years in the penitentiary. The trial judge fixed this consecutive to a previous Kentucky sentence. Leonard Ray Casey was convicted of two counts of third degree burglary with a firearm and received two concurrent sentences of not less than ten years nor more than 12 years in the penitentiary. He was also convicted of attempt to commit a felony, grand larceny of a Chevrolet van, for which he received a sentence of 11 months and 29 days in the Sumner County Jail and a fine of $1000. Casey's burglary sentences are consecutive to this attempt sentence.

The defendant, Dennis Joe Stobaugh, was also convicted of two counts of third degree burglary with a firearm and received concurrent sentences of not less than ten years nor more than 12 years in the penitentiary. Harold Dean Suttle was also convicted of two counts of third degree burglary with a firearm but received concurrent sentences of not less than ten years nor more than ten years in the penitenitary.

A fifth defendant, Billy Hargraves, was found not guilty of two charges of burglary in the third degree.

We find that Basham's conviction must be reversed, but that there is no reversible error as to Casey, Stobaugh and Suttle.

On August 14, 1981, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was given permission by the Federal District Court for the Western District of Kentucky to wiretap two of Shirley Basham's telephones. In a tape of a telephone conversation of September 2, 1981, at 1:28 p.m., Basham stated that he and the other boys had been down to look at something in Tennessee. Basham felt that it was a big operation and "a hell of a big deal." There were about four or five buildings, including several warehouses. Basham agreed with Joe Stobaugh that it would probably be "a hell of a big carry." Basham ran out all the roads down there but did not want to drive back through because people were looking at him. Later, at 1:45 p.m., Basham told Leonard Casey over the telephone that he had just told "one of the fools up north" that they found the place down there. The northerner could arrange to come down the next day.

At 4:34 that afternoon, Basham assured Dean Suttle's wife that Dean was working with boys that would make the count right and not shortchange each other. Those boys would be straight with Dean even if it was 50 grand in a sack.

On the next day, September 3, Basham asked Dean Suttle if his boy had heard from the Louisville boys. He urged Suttle that they should not go without a certain person because he was the main cog in the wheel on one thing and he had

"all the stuff" that worked. At 6:02 p.m., Basham asked Casey if he had heard from "these geese." Casey replied that they were going to try to make it if "he gets hold of the other one." Casey asked Basham: "You didn't get caught, did you?" Basham responded: "Right." Casey said he was just waiting on them and Basham asked him what time they were supposed to holler. Casey replied: "Anytime between now and 8:00."

The F.B.I., with the help of other agencies, also conducted other forms of surveillance on Shirley Basham and the other defendants in the Bowling Green, Kentucky, area. An Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau agent observed Leonard Casey load some packages and a box into his Pontiac at his home ~~in~~ Bowling Green shortly after 1:00 p.m.

on September 3, 1981. Casey drove to a restaurant where he met Dean Suttle and the two drove north on a Kentucky highway. The agent saw the vehicle nearing the residence of Shirley Basham.

A Kentucky state policeman later that afternoon saw William Hargraves and Dennis Joe Stobaugh arrive at the Casey residence. At about 6:30 p.m., Leonard Casey loaded what appeared to be a cardboard box from his pickup truck into his brown and cream 1978 Chevrolet van bearing the Kentucky license plate number EXY116. At about 7:30 p.m., the van left Johnson Acres Trailer Park where Casey lived on Kentucky Highway 68 and went to Dean Suttle's residence. The van then headed south with Leonard Ray Casey driving, William Hargraves in the front passenger seat, Joe Stobaugh in a rear seat, and an unidentified passenger in the other rear seat. The fourth person developed to be Suttle. The officers then watched the van proceed nonstop to Gallatin, Tennessee.

Mr. Casey was seen driving the van in a shopping area south of Gallatin with Hargraves in the passenger seat. The van proceeded to drive slowly through the streets of Gallatin, into shopping centers, through parking lots, into the hospital area, through service stations and through McDonald's restaurant.

The van proceeded to Steam Plant Road where it stopped at about 9:30 p.m. Leonard Casey and Joe Stobaugh quickly got out and ran up a nearby railroad track toward the Shrum Vending Company. The men stooped over low as they ran. The van then continued on toward Shrum Vending Company.

At about 11:00 to 11:15 p.m., Harold Dean Suttle was arrested while sitting on the floor of the van in the Donnelley Printing Company parking lot, about 400 yards from the Shrum Vending Company. Suttle was seated by a window that faced toward Shrum. He made a move as if to get around to the front seat. A fully loaded .38 caliber handgun was lying in the driver's seat of the van. A pocketknife was in Suttle's pocket. There was a twoway radio in the front seat as well as a pair of binoculars.

At about 11:30 p.m., two persons ran quickly out of the Shrum Vending Company, according to one witness. Another witness testified that they came out of the nearby R.C. Cola Bottling Company building. A Gallatin police officer shouted, "Halt, police." The two kept coming toward the police. The police opened fire and both of these persons fell to the ground. Joe Stobaugh, unhurt, was apprehended on the ground while the other person, apparently shot, fled on foot. A police officer thought that this person escaping had some type of weapon. He was later shown to be Casey.

Stobaugh had on a ski mask and a walkietalkie was lying by his side. Some stickers and brush were on the mask. Also nearby was a fully loaded .38 caliber pistol. Stobaugh had a lock pick and a ring of lock pick gun keys on his person. An EZ pick gun for picking locks, another lock pick, a bag of change with three rings of keys in it, and a flashlight were all found within a few feet of Stobaugh.

An acetylene cutting torch that had been in the R.C. building before this incident was found in front of the Armitage Chemical Company. A pair of goggles, vice grips and a hatchet were found in this area. The suspect on foot had fled in this direction. East of the chemical company, behind Andrews Wire Company, a gun belt and holster were found. The belt had places on it for carrying other instruments. A pair of Isotoner gloves was found close to the gun belt.

The co-owner of the Shrum Company testified that he picked up a ring of his keys and some change where it looked like they had been thrown down in front of the Armitage Chemical Company. The police had his sack of change and keys to the lock boxes on the vending machines he operated.

The door of the Shrum Vending Company was found open and it appeared that the lock had been pried. One officer testified that the office area appeared to have been ransacked. It looked as if someone had gone through the papers, desk drawers and file cabinets. These things were open and papers and other things were scattered about. The office couch was pulled out from the wall and the cushions had been thrown in the floor. The shelves inside the trucks in the warehouse had been scattered. There were also glove marks in the office.

In the R.C. Cola Bottling Company building next door, the desk drawers were open. Filing cabinets were also pulled out and articles were scattered.

In the meantime, the F.B.I. had recorded a telephone conversation that night at 9:45 p.m. between Janie Suttle (Dean's wife) and Shirley Basham in Bowling Green. Janie asked Basham if everything had gone okay. Basham replied, "Yes." He asked Janie to call him if she heard anything from them. Basham said that "if they have the....fella' watching...we, we have no way of knowing." Basham had "told him what to do there," though. Janie stated that "he" would not tell her what Basham had said. Basham stated that if Jabe (Dean Suttle) were to have to get out on foot down there or anything that he would probably call him or Janie. Basham knew about where Jabe would be.

At 3:59 a.m. on September 4, 1981, Leonard Casey told Shirley Basham over the telephone that he had been shot with a shotgun. He asked Basham if he had heard from anyone else and Basham had not. Casey figured that they must still be down there trying to find somebody. Basham asked if Jabe (Dean Suttle) had gotten away, and Casey said he should have, although Joe "may be bad." Casey explained that they had "slipped in the back on us," and that he lost his piece.

At 4:00 a.m., Basham asked Janie Suttle if she had heard from Jabe. Basham said that they had shot Leonard and the other boy. He said "this is where experience comes in. They're supposed to get the hell away from there. They can'd do nothing for a shot man." Basham told Janie at 4:09 a.m. that "it looks awful bad right now, young'un. Least two of 'em are shot. I don't know where my third man is, and I don't know where Jabe is." At 4:30 a.m. he told her, "He's either supposed to be still right there, and him laying in the back 'sleep, at the hospital parking lot." The tools and stuff were supposed to have been with them, and they got rid of them. Basham did not know if they explained to him to throw the radio and everything away. Basham was heard on another tape to say that they said two came out firing.

At 5:40 a.m., September 4, 1981, Leonard Casey was arrested near his home in Bowling Green. It appeared that he had been shot and he was treated for a gunshot wound. He was dirty and had sticktights in his hair. A woman had reported that she found a fresh blood type looking substance inside her Chevrolet van on the seats, ignition and dashboard at the Donnelley Printing Company after working there that night.

It was also on a potato chip-like bag. She thought that maybe someone had tried to start her van because the ignition was loose. Also, James Elmore testified his truck was missing from Donnelley that night.

At 9:11 p.m. on September 4, 1981, Basham told a lawyer that he had gotten a boy in jail in Gallatin in trouble. The boy had taken a run for him. The boy had never even told them his name, though. He had done what he was supposed to do so Basham was going to do the same.

At 6:01 p.m. on September 6, 1981, Basham told Dean Suttle that he was sitting up there and no crime had been committed when he was arrested. Suttle said that the only way he could get out of it would be if they believed that he just crawled up in the van and went to sleep.

At 9:34 p.m. on September 7, 1981, Joe Stobaugh told Basham that he had not ever had anything snatched out of his hand as hard as that change bag was. He was jerked off his feet. After 30 to 45 minutes, they ran a cruiser down in there with lights on him. Stobaugh said that someone pulled out a potato chip bag covered with blood.

The evidence showed separate burglaries.

Although Suttle was arrested a short time before Stobaugh and Casey came from one of the burglarized buildings, it is apparent that Suttle was acting as a lookout while the burglaries were in progress.

None of the defendants testified.

The foregoing evidence was sufficient for any rational trier of fact to find all the defendants except Shirley Ray Basham guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. See T.R.A.P. 13(e) and Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 99 S.Ct. 2781, 61 L.Ed.2d 560 (1979).

Basham contends that the court erred in failing to dismiss the indictment against him, and that the evidence fails to support the charges of the indictment under which he was tried.

The indictment charged:

"MINUTES CRIMINAL COURT, SUMNER COUNTY, TENNESSEE - OCTOBER 16, 1981
MINUTES BOOK 24 PAGE 72

THIRD COUNT:

And the Grand Jurors aforesaid, on their oath aforesaid, do further present and say that the said SHIRLEY R. BASHAM, heretofore on or about the > 3rd day of September, 1981, in the County and State aforesaid, did unlawfully, knowingly and feloniously move, incite, counsel and procure Dennis Joe Stobaugh, Harold Dean Suttle, Leonard Ray Casey and Billy Hargraves to commit the felony of burglary in violation of Title 39, Section 903, Tennessee Code Annotated, against the peace and dignity of the State of Tennessee."

Basham filed a lengthy bill of particulars in 61 sections which we think that the court properly denied. A bill of particulars is not for the purpose of broad discovery. State v. Hicks, 666 S.W.2d 54 (Tenn. 1984); State v. Wiseman, 643 S.W.2d 354 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1982). We think that the indictment charges that, in Sumner County, Tennessee, Basham moved, incited, counseled and procured his four codefendants to commit burglary in the third degree while possessing firearms, and that the motion to dismiss it was properly denied.

Basham contends, however, that the evidence under that indictment does not show that he committed any crime in the State of Tennessee. As before mentioned, the indictment charged that he committed the offense in Sumner County, Tennessee. The only evidence showing that Basham had been to Tennessee is found in a tape of his conversation with Stobaugh on September 2, 1981, the day before the burglaries. In it Basham said that he and "the other boys" had been down to look at something in Tennessee; that they went right to it from Stobaugh's instructions. This tape does not show that Basham, in Tennessee, moved or incited anyone to commit these burglaries. The evidence does not show that Basham incited anyone to commit a crime while he was in Tennessee.

Basham was not shown guilty under the indictment in this case, and this issue on the sufficiency of the evidence must be sustained.

Basham also contends that the trial court's instructions amounted to an amendment to the indictment and that this amounted to a material variance.

The trial court instructed the jury:

> "In order to convict the defendant Basham of the offense of Accessory Before the Fact of Third Degree Burglary, you must find beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty that:
> (1) The crime of Third Degree Burglary was in fact committed,
> (2) The defendant, Shirley Ray Basham, was not present at the time the said felony was committed,

(3) The principal offenders, Dennis Joe Stobaugh, Harold Dean Suttle, Leonard Ray Casey, and Billy Hargraves, or either of them, actually committed the offense of Third Degree Burglary in such a manner that would make them guilty under the law of this state heretofore read to you, and

(4) The defendant Basham did, on or about the 3rd day of September, 1981, feloniously move, incite, counsel, hire, command, or procure Dennis Joe Stobaugh, Harold Dean Suttle, Leonard Ray Casey, and Billy Hargraves, or either of them, to commit the offense of Third Degree Burglary."

He complains of the addition of "or either of them."

T.C.A. 39-1-301 defines an accessory before the fact: "Any person who shall feloniously move, incite, counsel, hire, command, or procure any other person to commit a felon..." (emphasis added)

Any variance here is harmless error. See State v. Moss, 662 S.W.2d 590 (Tenn. 1984).

Defendants Stobaugh and Casey were represented by the same attorney at trial. Another lawyer was placed on standby for Casey should any conflict between the two defendants arise. This lawyer made a motion for continuance for Casey before the reading of the indictment, apparently because he was unprepared. This was denied. Casey still had his previous counsel and no conflict had arisen then that would call for the standby counsel. There were no grounds for a continuance at that time. The standby counsel was able to present any conflicts. The motion for severance Casey claims he made after opening argument came too late and was waived. Tenn.R.Crim.P. 12(b)(5) and 14(a).

Several of the defendants complain that the jury was allowed to read transcripts of the typed conversations while they were being played. They did not object to this when the transcripts were given to the jury and the defendants point to no place in the record where they ever objected to this. They have therefore waived this issue under T.R.A.P. 36(a) and Rule 10(b) of this court.

The defendants assert that the trial court should have charged the jury on other crimes evidence. There was no evidence introduced about other crimes of the defendants, however, and, thus, there was no need or requirement for the trial judge to charge the applicable law to such facts. Scalf v. State, 565, S.W.2d 506 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1978). Also, the defendants cite no authority to support their argument and have therefore waived this issue. Rules of the Court of Criminal Appeals, 10(b).

The defendants also say that the trial court should have declared a mistrial after several statements by witnesses. One officer stated that he had information "they were dangerous." There was no contemporaneous objection to this statement, though, and the defendants have waived review of it. State v. Sutton, 562 S.W.2d 820 (Tenn. 1978). The trial court also corrected the witness. Likewise, a comment referring to the Kentucky State Police, organized crime division, was not objected to at the time and review of it has been waived. A defendant did object to another reference to the crime division and his motion for mistrial was overruled. Various crime agencies, such as the F.B.I., were mentioned throughout the trial. It was obvious through the detailed descriptions of surveillance that the authorities suspected the defendants of wrongdoing. We do not believe that the reference to the organized crime division, if error, more probably than not affected the judgment. T.R.A.P. 36(b).

A witness also testified: "I was given four names. We were advised that they were dangerous, they were armed, and at least two of them had made statements that they wouldn't be taken alive." A defendant's objection was sustained but his motion for mistrial was overruled. The trial court admonished the jury to completely disregard the statement. We believe that any error was corrected by the timely instructions. Armstrong v. State, 555 S.W. 2d 870, 874 (Tenn.Cr. App. 1977).

This issue is overruled.

The defendants further assert that several types of evidence, including sticktights and photographs, should not have been admitted. They have waived this issue by failing to cite any authority. Rules of the Court of Criminal Appeals, 10(b). If error, this was harmless.

Defendant Suttle complains that he should have received a probation hearing. We do not think that he was eligible for probation under T.C.A. 40-21-101. He was convicted of two offenses of third degree burglarly with a firearm in his possession, the maximum offense of each, under T.C.A. 39-3-404, being more than ten years. This issue is overruled.

The defendants assert that they should have been provided certain alleged previous statements of certain witnesses following their direct examinations under Tenn.R.Crim. P. 26.2. The statement of T.B.I. agent James Taylor was not signed by him under Tenn.R.Crim.P. 26.2(g)(1). We have seen no evidence that it was "otherwise adopted or approved by him." The defendants claim it was but point to no page in the record as required by Rule 10(b) of this court. We also do not find any evidence that this was a "substantially verbatim recital of an oral statement made by the witness under Rule 26.2(g)(2), Tenn.R.Crim.P. Thus, Agent Taylor made no statement for the defendants to examine.

The document attributed to Mr. Lame fits into the same category as the above. It is not a statement under Rule 26.2. Neither is a report with Bobby Bridgewater's name on it.

Bridgewater also made some notes in preparation for trial. We do not see how the denial of these notes more probably than not affected the judgment. T.R.A.P. 36(b). We cannot review the alleged Scruggs and Brewer statements because they are not in the record. Wiley v. State, 552 S.W.2d 410 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1977). This issue is overruled.

The defendants argue that the court erred by conducting the trial as if the defendants were solely charged wih conspiracy to commit an offense. In this issue they say that the wiretap evidence recordings were improperly admitted when no conspiracy was charged or proven and the defendants did not testify. They complain of hearsay evidence and evidence in violation of Bruton v. United States, 391 U.S. 123, 88 S.Ct. 1620, 20 L.Ed.2d 476 (1968).

After considering the entire record, we conclude that the trial court properly allowed the questioned evidence to be considered by the jury.

If a conspiracy is shown to exist, the coconspirator exception to the hearsay rule is applicable even though no conspiracy has been formally charged.

State v. Lequire, 634 S.W.2d 608 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1981), footnote 1.

The evidence in this record shows that an ongoing conspiracy existed between these five codefendants, along with an unindicted coconspirator, Janie Suttle, to commit these crimes. In view of this fact, the coconspirator exception to the hearsay rule is applicable here.

In Lequire v. State, supra, this court said:

> "A conspiracy is defined as a combination between two or more persons to do a criminal or an unlawful act or a lawful act by criminal or unlawful means. Owens v. State, 178 Tenn. 32, 154 S.W.2d 529 (1941). Everyone entering into a conspiracy is a party to every act which has before been done by the others, and to every act by the others afterward, in furtherance of the common design. The act of one is considered the act of all and, therefore, is imputable to all. Solomon v. State, 168 Tenn. 180, 76 S.W.2d 331 (1934).

> Also, where one coconspirator commits the target crime in the absence of the other, the absent one is equally guilty as a principal. Beck v. State, 203 Tenn. 671, 315 S.W.2d 254 (1958); Pierce v. State, 130 Tenn. 24, 168 S.W. 851 (1914). Once a conspiracy has been established, evidence of any act or declaration of a conspirator during the conspiracy, and in furtherance of it, is coconspirator on trial for the commission of the target crime. Randolph v. State, 570 S.W.2d 869 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1978); Evans v. State, 557 S.W.2d 927 (Tenn.Cr.App. 1977); 3 Wharton's Criminal Evidence § 642 (13th ed. 1973)."

On the tapes, each defendant showed his knowledge about the burglary. Their interlocking statements showed that each defendant was involved as to the crucial facts such as time, location, felonious activity, and the awareness of an overall plan. Also, there is no Bruton problem in the present case. Bruton does not prohibit the use as evidence of a coconspirator's statements against another coconspirator. Lequire v. State, supra.

The defendants say that the court permitted some wiretap evidence after the conspiracy had terminated. We find that the conspiracy was still in existence when this evidence was admitted. A conspiracy may continue after the crime has been committed for, among other things, the concealment of the crime. 22(A) C.J.S. Criminal Law § 770.

We find no error in the trial court's instructions on conspiracy. We likewise find without merit Basham's claim that the trial court should have granted him a severance at the close of the state's proof.

The state was able to make out a case against the defendants here in large part because of surveillance. The defendants now challenge the legality of the information obtained through the electronic surveillance used in the investigation against them.

They first assert that the wiretap application was not properly authorized. The record reveals, though, that the assistant United States attorney, properly designated by the Attorney General of the United States, properly authorized under 18 U.S.C. 2516(1) this application for interception of wire or oral communications to the federal district court in Kentucky.

18 U.S.C. 2516(1) provides that any assistant attorney general specially designated by the attorney general may authorize an application for a wiretap. Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti designated the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the criminal division, D. Lowell Jensen, to authorize applications for a wiretap. Jensen did authorize any law enforcement officer of the United States to make a wiretap application in the Basham case. United States Attorney Alexander Taft, Jr., a law enforcement officer of the United States, made the application. It was granted by the Kentucky federal court.

It is true that Jensen's signature dos not appear on the authorization. There is no requirement that it should under 18 U.S.C. 2516(1), however, and indeed, there is no requirement that the authorization itself be in writing. The federal court and the trial court below were satisfied that Jensen authorized this wiretap and there was sufficient evidence to support that finding.

Jensen granted the authorization upon the recommendation of Philip Wilens, director of the office of enforcement operations of the criminal division of the Attorney General's office. Jensen still authorized the wiretap properly. Also, we see no problem with the fact that Wilens apparently prepared the authorization letter from Jensen to Taft.

The defendants also contend that the application contained information from a pen register that was not authorized by the court. In Smith v. Maryland, 442 U.S. 735, 99 S.Ct. 2577, 61 L.Ed.2d 220 (1979), the Supreme Court condoned the use of pen register evidence obtained without court authorization. This was because the defendant had no reasonable expectation that the phone numbers he dialed would remain private. Id, at 442 U.S. 743. Thus, the Fourth Amendment does not extend to pen registers, and any information from an unauthorized pen register was properly considered by the federal judge. It follows that the defendants' argument that probable cause was required for the authorization of the other pen registers obtained by court order is likewise without merit.

The defendants assert that the district judge did not read the application for the wiretap, and that the application contained no probable cause to issue the wiretap order. There is no evidence in the record that the judge did not read this application. After examination of the application, we find that there was probable cause under 18 U.S.C.

2518(3) to issue the order. Defendants' assertion that normal investigation procedures were not utilized before resorting to the writings is meritless.

The affidavit showed that an F.B.I. agent tried to penetrate Basham's fencing operation but failed because Basham would only deal with people he or an acquaintance knew. F.B.I. agents, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and the Kentucky State Police conducted surveillance of Basham and Leonard Casey. Surveillance of Basham ended when apparently his attorney asked the Kentucky State Police to stop it. Casey used circuitous routes, and a plane had to be used to help observe him, which Casey apparently knew. Confidential sources stated that they would not furnish information about Basham for fear of their lives and the lives of their families. Several pen registers were also used.

The authorities here make a concentrated effort to gain information about Basham's operation without resorting to a wiretap. These efforts did not or could not accomplish this. The authorities are not obligated to exhaust every investigative technique in the book before obtaining a wiretap order. United States. V. Martin, 599 F.2d 880 (9th Cir.), cert. denied. 441 U.S. 962, 99 S.Ct. 2408, 60 L.Ed.2d 1067 (1979). We believe that here they did show under 18 U.S.C. 2518(3)(c) that normal investigative procedures had been tried and had failed or reasonably appeared to have been unlikely to succeed if tried or to have been too dangerous.

The defendants also challenge the reliability of the informants. Informant CS-1 provided valuable information about Basham's vast history in dealing in stolen goods, his associates and about how he conducted this business almost exclusively through his telephones at his residence. CS-1 furnished information in 1981 which resulted in several convictions in Kentucky, and in the recovery of a large quantity of stolen property. Other similarly reliable informants, according to other law enforcement officials known to the affiant, also provided valuable information in this application. Clearly, the informant information was reliable and could be considered in the determination of probable cause.

The defendant Basham filed a motion below, which was overruled, to produce two of the informants in this case so that their reliability could be tested in court. He believed that the statements attributed to them in F.B.I. Agent Brewer's affidavit in the wiretap application were false and that Agent Brewer had no way of knowing if they were true. Agent Brewer had not had personal contact with these informants. Defendant asserted that Brewer only used this information to deceive the court.

In Franks v. Delaware, 438 U.S. 154, 98 S.Ct. 2674, 57 L.Ed.2d 667 (1978), the Supreme Court held that a defendant may, in some cases, challenge the validity of an affidavit that shows probable cause for a search warrant. The defendant must assert that the affiant has stated deliberate falsehoods in the affidavit or displayed a reckless disregard for the truth. The defendant's attack must be more than conclusory and must contain an offer of proof. If the defendant makes a substantial preliminary showing of such falsehood, then his request for a hearing must be granted. In that hearing, the defendant will have an opportunity to prove the deliberate falsity or reckless disregard of the affiant.

In this hearing, the impeachment of nongovernmental informants is not allowed. The attack must be on the affiant and must show that he had reason to believe that the information was false. Thus, the trial court properly denied the defendant's request to produce the informants to test their reliability. The defendant was allowed to test the affiant at the motion to suppress hearing, but no misconduct by him was revealed. He only testified that he had not had personal contact with these informants, but had been told that they were reliable. No evidence was introduced that the affiant had reason to believe the information was false. Therefore, the trial court correctly concluded that the affiant had no reason to believe the information false. This issue is overruled.

The defendants further contend that the wiretap evidence was obtained through ruse and collusion of the F.B.I. and the Kentucky State Police in violation of Kentucky statutes prohibiting wiretap evidence.

The wiretap was properly authorized under federal law. The F.B.I. was assigned to collect information from the wiretap and they did. We find no ruse or collusion between the F.B.I. and the Kentucky State Police to taint the procedure in this case.

We note that in Basham v. Commonwealth, Ky., 675 S.W.2d 376 (1984), the Supreme Court of Kentucky considered a similar claim by Basham involving the same wiretap now before us and authorized by the federal judge on August 14, 1981. The Kentucky court addressed the issue of collusion to avoid the state law and also found none. It held that evidence obtained in a federal wiretap that complied with federal constitutional and statutory requirements could be used against Basham and the other defendants in state court proceedings, even though a Kentucky statute prohibits electronic eavesdropping.

The defendants further assert that the United States Attorney did not comply with the wiretap order that called for him to submit progress reports to the court every five days. They contend that the first written report was not submitted until almost two months after the wiretap order. However, the U.S. Attorney testified that he made oral reports to the court every five days. Nowhere does the wiretap order require written reports. This issue is meritless.

For the previously stated reasons, the conviction of Basham must be reversed and dismissed. We have examined all other issues as to Basham and the other defendants and find them to be without merit. The convictions of Casey, Stobaugh and Suttle are affirmed.

Application under oath having been made before me by Alexander T. Taft, Jr., United States Attorney, an "investigative or law enforcement officer" as defined in Section 2510 of Title 18, United States Code, for an order authorizing the interception of wire communications pursuant to Section 2518 of Title 18, United States Code, and full consideration having been given to matters set forth therein, the Court finds:

tion of Title 18, United States Code, Section 371, and Narcotic and Trafficking offenses in violation of Title 21, United States Code, Sections 841(a)(1) and 846.

These communications will concern theft from interstate shipments, the interstate transportation and receipt of the stolen property, illegal distribution of controlled substances, a conspiracy to commit these offenses, the identity of the participants and the precise nature and scope of the illegal activity.

C) there is probable cause to believe that telephone number (502)781-1091, subscribed to in the name of Shirley Ray Basham, and telephone number (502) 781-5637, subscribed to by Alice Basham, both located at Route 10, Box 54, Campbell Road, Bowling Green, Kentucky, and both billed to Shirley Ray Basham, at the address listed above have been used, are being used and will be used by Shirley Ray Basham, Billy Ray Buchanan, Leonard Ray Casey, William Albert Hudson, Sr., George Myrland Allen, William Dean Byrns, Fred Tabor, Donald Bradley, John Lowery, William Ralph Hargraves, and others as yet unknown in connection with the commission of the offenses detailed herein.

D) normal investigative procedures have been tried unsuccessfully and reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if continued or reasonably appear unlikely to succeed if tried.

WHEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, are authorized pursuant to application authorized by the Assistant Attorney General in Charge of the Criminal Division of the United States Department of Justice, who has been specifically designated by the Attorney General of the United States to exercise the power conferred to him by Section 2516 of Title 18, United States Code, to:

1) Intercept wire communications of Shirley Ray Basham, Billy Ray Buchanan, Leonard Ray Casey, William

Albert Hudson, Sr., George Myrland Allen, William Dean Byrns, Fred Tabor, Donald Bradley, John Lowery, William Ralph Hargraves, and others as yet unknown, concerning the above listed offenses to and from telephone number (502)781-1091, subscribed to by Shirley Ray Basham, and located at Route 10, Box 54, Campbell Road, Bowling Green, Kentucky, and to and from telephone number (502)781-5637, subscribed to by Alice Basham, and located at Route 10, Box 54, Campbell Road, Bowling Green, Kentucky.

PROVIDING FURTHER, that such interceptions authorized in paragraphs A,B and C of this order shall not automatically terminate when the type of communication detailing offenses described above has first been obtained but shall continue until communications are intercepted which reveal the manner in which Shirley Ray Basham, Billy Ray Buchanan, Leonard Ray Casey, William Albert Hudson, Sr., George Myrland Allen, William Dean Byrns, Fred Tabor, Donald Bradley, John Lowery, William Ralph Hargraves, and others as yet unknown, participate in the above-described offenses and which reveal the identities of their confederates, their places of operation, and the nature of the conspiracy involved therein, or for the period of thirty (30) days from the date of this order, whichever is earlier.

It is further ordered upon request of the applicant that the South Central Bell Telephone Company, Louisville, Kentucky, a communications common carrier as defined in Section 2510(10) of Title 18, United States Code, shall continue to furnish the Federal Bureau of Investigation forthwith with all information, facilities, and technical assistance necessary to accomplish the interceptions unobtrusively and with a minimum of interference with the services that such carrier is according the person whose communications are to be intercepted; the furnishing of such facilities or technical assistance by South Central Bell Telephone Company, Louisville, Kentucky, is to be compensated for by the applicant at the prevailing rates. To avoid prejudice to this criminal investigation, the said communication common carrier, its agents, and employees are hereby ordered not to disclose or cause the disclosure of his order or the interceptions which it authorizes to any person other than those of its agents and employees who require said information to accomplish the interceptions of communications hereby ordered. In particular, said carrier, its agents, and employees shall in no event make such disclosure to a telephone subscriber, any potential interceptee or participant in the offenses named in this order. Moreover, this order shall be sealed.

PROVIDING THAT, this authorization to intercept wire communications shall be executed as soon as practicable after signing of this order and shall be conducted in such a way as to minimize the interception of communications not otherwise subject to interception under Chapter 119 of Title 18, United States Code, and must terminate upon attainment of the authorized objective or, in any event, at the end of thirty (30) days from the date of this order.

PROVIDING ALSO, that the supervising United States Attorney shall provide the Court with a report, every five (5) days following the date of this order showing what progress has been made toward achievement of the authorized objective and the need for continued interception.

SHIRLEY BASHAM

MOTION TO SUPPRESS

FROM: WILLIAM B. VEST,
Counsel for Defendant Basham

FILED: November 9, 1982

Comes the Defendant, SHIRLEY RAY BASHAM, and moves pursuant to T.R.C.P. 12 for the suppression of the contents of any and all interceptions of wire and oral communications, and evidence derived therefrom, to and from telephone numbers 5402-781-1091 and 502-781-5637 listed to Defendant and his wife, Alice Basham, on the ground that said communications were unlawfully intercepted and unlawfully divulged, as hereinafter more specifically appears:

Defendant shows:

1. That the Interception Order shows on its face that the U.S. Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky, Alexander T. Taft, Jr., did not have the requisite authority to make such application in that Taft did not have the lawful authorization from the Attorney General of the United States or any Assistant Attorney General of the United States specifically designated by the Attorney General of the United States, as required by 18 U.S.C.A. 2516(1), and is therefore void.

3. That, by reason of the foregoing circumstances, the Applications presented the Honorable Thomas Ballentine, District Judge, were formally defective, and no valid orders of interception have ever been entered pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 2518 in the within case; and all evidence procured under such orders as were issued, based upon the applications tendered to the District Judge, has been unlawfully obtained.

WHEREFORE, DEFENDANT BASHAM PRAYS THAT, for all the foregoing reasons, and for each of the stated reasons, the evidence procured by virtue of any wiretap order be suppressed, and that upon such suppression of evidence, the case against Defendant BASHAM be dismissed.

This the 9th day of November, 1982.

EXAMINATION BY MR. McCALL

Q. Mr. Taft, were you present with the agent when he presented the affidavit to Judge Ballantine for his signature?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall where that was done on the 14th of August? Was it done in his chambers?

A. Without referring to my records I wouldn't know exactly. I would assume that was on the 14th, for the purposes of discussion today. It was in his chambers. I can tell you that.

Q. Do you know how long Judge Ballantine took to review the affidavit? Do you recall?

A. I don't. My recollection is that we went to his chambers with the application and the supporting affidavit. I believe it was Agent Brewer and myself. I believe the affidavit was signed in the presence of Judge Ballantine, witnessed personally by him. I was there when it was signed. It wasn't outside his chambers. My recollection is he reviewed not only the application but also the affidavit prior to signing the authorization.

Q. Do you recall if there was anybody else present other than Agent Brewer and yourself? In other words, were there any other affiants there before the Judge?

A. No.

Q. And you can't specifically recall whether he reviewed the affidavit or whether he asked the agent any questions about it or what time period elapsed? That's what I'm trying to get to.

A. I really wouldn't be able to make a guess on the time period. I know he did take time to read through the application and at least look through the affidavit. My recollection is that he did ask some questions, although I couldn't tell you what questions he asked.

EXAMINATION BY MR. JONES

A. My recollection--I'd have to say he read it. I don't want to mince words with you. I don't know if he's a speed reader or not. I don't know how much he comprehended as he turned the pages. He looked at each and every page. Keeping in mind that you're right that it takes some time to read that, and I have to admit I wasn't standing over his shoulder watching his every move. We simply went to his chambers, presented this, and told him what it was. We presented the application to him and then waited while he reviewed it.

Q. Did Mr. Brewer accompany you there?

A. Yes, because my recollection is he signed it in Judge Ballantine's presence and swore to it in front of Judge Ballantine.

Q. Were there any other agents present at that time?

A. My recollection is it was just Agent Brewer and myself.

Q. Would it be fair to say that either you or Agent Brewer gave him a sort of summary of what was in the affidavit and explained what you wanted?

A. If I understand your question correctly, I would say yes. Agent Dodd of the FBI's Louisville office may have been present. I wouldn't want to be quoted on that.
